- Payroll Pinch Of Big Federal Agencies Eased
- Stopgap Money Bill Goes To Truman

By EDWIN B. HAKINSON
Washington, Aug. 18 (P)—Swift action on Capitol Hill pulled a number of big government agencies out of a financial hole today.

But nearly $30,000,000,000 in operating funds that should have been voted six weeks ago still were snarled up in Congress. Sept. 15 is the new deadline for solving the tangle—the third new deadline Congress has set since June 30.

Quick teamwork between Chairmen Cannon (D-Mo.) and McClellan (D-Tenn.) of the House and Senate appropriations committees ended a temporary financial emergency late yesterday for a long list of government agencies which have been waiting for passage of their regular appropriations since the new fiscal year started July 1.

Cannon and McClellan sped approval of a stopgap measure so about 40 government agencies can continue meeting payrolls and other expenses.

Officially the Army, Navy, Air Force, Atomic Energy commission, Veterans Administration, Interior department and more than a score of other agencies ran out of money at midnight Monday.

Cannon finally forced a favorable House vote yesterday. McClellan promptly called his committee members into session, won their approval of the new stopgap measure, then rushed it through the Senate by voice vote late is the day.

The emergency money bill went to the White House last night for President Truman's signature.

Three important money measures have not made even their first trip through the Senate. They include a $590,000,000 Interior department appropriation, a bill carrying $14,200,000,000 funds for the armed services, and a $160,000,000 catch-all deficiency measure.

Senate To Vote On Clark Today

Confirmation Of New
Justice Predicted

By JACK BELL

Washington, Aug. 18 (P)—Baring unexpected developments, the Senate today will confirm Attorney General Tom C. Clark as the 36th individual to sit on the United States supreme court.

Clark's nomination by President Truman comes before the senators for three and one half hours debate before a scheduled vote at 2:30 p. m. Eastern Standard Time.

As soon as it has acted on Clark, the Senate is expected to approve Mr. Truman's nomination of Senator J. Howard McGrath of Rhode Island, the Democratic national chairman, to succeed Clark as attorney general.

Clark's appointment to fill the vacancy left by the death of Justice Frank Murphy is expected to be opposed by Senators Ferguson (R-Mich) and Donnell (R-Mo).

If confirmed as expected, Clark, a 49-year old Texan who has served as attorney general since June 29, 1945, is expected to take the oath of office within the week. He will become President Truman's third appointee and the eighth Democratic member of the nine-man high court. All members of the court either were appointed by President Roosevelt or Mr. Truman.

McGrath, leaving the Senate to become attorney general, has announced he will resign as Democratic national chairman at a meeting of the party's committee here Aug. 24. He is expected to be succeeded in the Democratic post by William Boyle jr., now a 30-year-old executive assistant to McGrath.

Lonely Hearts Racket Couple Convicted Of First Degree Murder

New York, Aug. 18 (P)—Plump Martha Beck and her lover, Raymond Fernandez, were convicted of first degree murder today in the lonely hearts murder case. The verdict carries a mandatory death sentence.

Both defendants received the verdict stoically. Fernandez stood erect, his face displaying no emotion. Mrs. Beck rested her taut fingers on the defense counsel in Cohen's home.

The verdict was announced by a jury that had been kept in session all night on orders of the court. The court set Monday for sentencing and defense motions.

Near dawn, the jurors, on duty since yesterday morning, asked permission to go to bed. However, the court said it would not be convenient to grant the request, and sent them back to their deliberations.

Cohen was reported variously as hiding out locally and also "out of town." It was recalled that a few weeks ago he publicly announced his intention of going to South America—for his health.

The verdict, at 7:30 a. m. (EST) came 12 hours and 34 minutes after the jury received the case last night.

Mrs. Beck, 29, and Fernandez, 34, had no rest during the night. They were kept in cells in the detention pen in the courthouse. There were no cots, but they were reported to have dozed in chairs.

Fernandez and Mrs. Beck were convicted of slaying Mrs. Fay, 66, Albany, N. Y., widow, at Valley Stream, N. Y., in a scheme to

Klan Leader Remains In Birmingham Jail

Montgomery, Ala., Aug. 18 (P)—Alabama Ku Klux Klan leader William Morris remained in a Birmingham jail today as the state supreme court took under advisement petition for his release.

The court, meeting in a special summer session, heard a petition by Morris' lawyer seeking his release, but declined to give a decision. The Klan leader has already served 32 days on a contempt of court charge arising from his failure to turn over a KKK membership list to the Jefferson county grand jury.

Beard Hides Lottery

Boston, Aug. 18 (P)—Seventy-two-year-old Harry Zeldman's chest-length whiskers were, police charged, the depositary for lottery slips.

The slips were found in Zeldman's flowing white beard when he was arrested yesterday. He was held for arraignment on a charge of setting up and promoting a lottery.

SOOT SPOILS POOL

Detroit (P)—City fathers today had an angry complaint from Mrs. Alex Manoogian against smoke from a nearby sewage pumping station. "Our swimming pool in the backyard can never be filled," she said, "because soot falls into the water."

The wording of the resolution (passed by the doctors) made clear that the sacrifice of medical ethics was being offered as an open bribe to the press of the state.

Britain Maps Plan To Meet Dollar Crisis

By ARTHUR GAVSHON

London, Aug. 18 (P)—A secret document outlining proposals for meeting the world dollar crisis has been drawn up by a committee of top British financial experts and goes before the cabinet for approval next week.

If okayed, the four-page document will form basic British policy at next month's dollar-pound Washington conference, when Sir Stafford Cripps, British chancellor of the exchequer, and Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin meet U. S. Treasury Secretary John W. Snyder and Canadian officials.

These officials will discuss the unbalanced trade between the U. S. dollar and British sterling areas which has left Britain desperately short of dollars.

Official sources said the four-part document comprises:

1—A study of the background and causes of the critical unbalance between the dollar and sterling areas.

2—A review of what each of the three governments has done to meet and redress that unbalance.

3—A close look at the situation as it exists now, underlining all the implications of a failure to agree on a solution.

4—A series of proposals aiming broadly at achieving some kind of world pattern which would allow a free flow of currencies between the dollar and non-dollar systems.

Informants said the British document attempts to prove that the dollar crisis is not British or American, but a global crisis.

Reporters thus were unable to ask him about a Republican demand that he oust Vaughan as coordinator of veterans affairs.

Senator McCarthy (R-Wis.) voiced the demand that Mr. Truman fire Vaughan from the veterans post.

Vaughan's name has come up repeatedly at hearings of the committee which is looking into activities of so-called five per-centers—persons who help in seeking out government contracts for a fee usually five per cent.

His name was brought up in connection with gifts of several home freezers, activities in behalf Wisconsin Senator Calls For Removal Of Vaughan In V. A.

Washington, Aug. 18 (P)—President Truman today asked the Senate to "suspend judgment" on Maj. Gen. Harry H. Vaughan until after his army aide testifies before the senate five per-center inquiry.

Mr. Truman, at a news conference, directed his request particularly to reporters and editors.

The sugar deal prompted McCarthy to demand that Maragon be indicted for perjury. The senator spoke out after the committee developed testimony which members said showed that Maragon had lied under oath.

But McCarthy's insistence that Vaughan be fired as coordinator of veterans affairs had nothing to do with that incident.

McCarthy said he was thinking instead about the testimony of Housing Expediter Tighe Woods last week.

Bus Riots Kill 7 In Santiago

Fare Boost Blamed For Bloody Fight

By BEN MEYER

Santiago, Chile, Aug. 18 (P)—Disagreement over a half cent boost in bus fares has caused bloody rioting in Santiago, cost seven lives, brought Congress into emergency session and inspired government charges of Communist agitation.

The rioting, which the government said was Red-inspired, has raged for the past two days in downtown Santiago.

The Senate approved early today a request from President Gonzalez Videla for extraordinary powers to cope with the situation. The bill now goes before the chamber of deputies.

The cabinet also has asked for press and radio censorship to meet a "Revolutionary" plot.

The fair increase which has precipitated all the furor was from 1.40 pesos to 1.80 pesos (32 cents to 3.6 cents.)

The cabinet declared the bus fare was boosted only after a careful survey showed it was needed.

Few buses were operating in Santiago following the smashing of their windows. Some empty bus depots were set afire. That same day persons were unable to get to work. Merchants have closed their shops and shuttered their windows.

Reopening Of Ports In Hawaii Stalled

Honolulu, Aug. 18 (P)—Hawaii stalled today in the drive to reopen its strikebound ports. The apparent government attitude: Wait and see what Harry Bridges does.

The stall was in effect on two firing lines in the 110-day CIO Stevedore strike—the courts and the Honolulu waterfront.

Action depended upon territorial Attorney General Walter D. Ackerman, Jr. and Ackerman, a high official said, had been told to lay off.

The word was that nothing was to upset direct union-employer negotiations aimed at settling the dispute. But peace talks, now in the third day, weren't getting very far.

Downstate Herd Takes Top Hereford Honors

Registered Herefords of Elma Hill Farms near Gaylord won 12 first and two second places in beef breed competition at the U.P. State Fair this year, the first time in many years that entries were opened to state-wide competition.

Judges, superintendents and supervisors in the beef cattle department were enthusiastic in praising the excellence of the Elma Hill Farms exhibit. They were of the opinion that beef breeders of the Upper Peninsula will be encouraged, rather than discouraged, by the downstate competition.

Other Hereford exhibitors, including William Kell of Wilson in Menominee county, and Felix Johnson of Escanaba Rt. 1, made a good showing in several sections. Kell won six first places with his animals, and Johnson took three first and a second.

Ruark Recalls Tale Of Pearls

Senator Murray Was Involved In Case

By ROBERT C. RUARK

New York.—I am just a touch amused to note that Sen. James Murray (D. Mont.) ordered the ejection of John Maragon, the big perfume and deep-freeze fellow, from the sacred precincts of the Senate. Just dearly love to see that late-blooming righteous indignation.

There is an odd parallel to the 6-per cent hearings, happened just after the war. About the first story I covered in post-war Washington featured Sen. Murray, some pearls, some odd government priorities, and a cast of characters that stretched from China to Washington.

Recalls Pearl Smuggle

Seems a couple of types named Joseph Goldstone and Howard McGowan romped off to the distant east to ease the cultured pearl market, away back in January, 1947. They bore the official travelling credentials of the Senate small business committee, of which Jim Murray was chairman. The necessary priorities for travel were signed by Senator Murray.

The herd was started in 1937 from stock of the Domino strain purchased in Michigan and the first showing of the herd was in 1944. The 14 head in the herd in 1937 has increased to 225 animals, and the present herd sire was purchased from the Wyoming Hereford Ranch, Cheyenne.

The story of the pearls and the priorities danced from Washington to Billings, Mont., to Seattle, to Philadelphia, to Japan, to China, and back to Washington. Mr. Goldstone, travelling officially as a member of the Senate committee, turned out to be the president of the Imperial Pearl Syndicate of Chicago, New York and San Francisco.

Mr. McGowan emerged as a member of Maury Maverick's Small War Plants Corp., but travelling as an economic consultant of the small business outfit, against Maverick's knowledge and without his consent.

Oh, it was a fine story. Senator Murray, he didn't know nothin'. His son and secretary, Charlie, he didn't know nothin'. Nobody knew nothin' about how these guys were travelling forbidden zones, right at war's end, in what the army criminal investigation division called "an effort to corner a $10 million monopoly in cultured pearls."

Everybody got into this act. Bless your heart, child, it developed that the counsel for Mr. Goldstone, the oyster ulcer tycoon, was nobody else than Mr. Lem Schiffield, the Philadelphia lawyer who has since represented Princess Stephanie Hohenlohe, the old Nazi-lover, and that well-scrubbed darling, Serge Rubinstein, the Russian-Portuguese type draft dodger and slick financier.

The army got going, and cancelled the priorities of Messrs. Goldstone and McGowan. Sen. Kenneth Wherry called for an investigation—of which, as I recall nothing every came.

Then, as follows the rainbow to the storm, everybody's memory got better. Sen. Murray came down with reverse amnesia and recalled that the pearl-pursuers had been accredited to his committee. Son Charlie remembered writing the state department in behalf of the two guys. The state department remembered to tell both Murrays to start remembering. You never saw such fine remembering in all my born days.

Nobody ever cleared up the reason James McKenna, of the consulate in Shanghai, gave Goldstone permission to carry 200 extra pounds of baggage on military aircraft, but he did, and somebody in the state department told him to do it. Nobody ever explained why a couple of business guys got high priority out of Murray for a private trip.

The story died. After a week, all I had was telephone, a note book full of remarkable doubletalk, and a set of fine flat lies to add to my collection. But the point I started to make is that I'm real glad to see the Senator, Murray, that is, so righteously indignant about the perversion of government for private gain. Maybe he's bored with Maragon's iceboxes. Pearls are so much more glamorous.

About one-sixth of the total U.S. fur production is obtained from animals raised in captivity.

The body was taken to the Skradski funeral home where the rosary will be recited at 8 Friday evening. Services will be held at 10 Saturday morning at All Saints' church, Father Matt LaViolette officiating, and burial will be made in Fernwood cemetery. Friends of the family may call at the funeral home beginning Friday morning.

You never saw such fine remembering in all my born days.

Nobody ever cleared up the reason James McKenna, of the consulate in Shanghai, gave Goldstone permission to carry 200 extra pounds of baggage on military aircraft, but he did, and somebody in the state department told him to do it. Nobody ever explained why a couple of business guys got high priority out of Murray for a private trip.

The story died.

After a week, all I had was telephone, a note book full of remarkable doubletalk, and a set of fine flat lies to add to my collection. But the point I started to make is that I'm real glad to see the Senator, Murray, that is, so righteously indignant about the perversion of government for private gain. Maybe he's bored with Maragon's iceboxes. Pearls are so much more glamorous.

Marketing Group Elects Advisors Hear Reports At Meet In Bark River

Bark River, Mich.—Mel Iverson, Eugene Derucher, Mike Slaga and Al Nielson of Bark River were elected to serve as an advisory committee to the Stephenson Marketing association at the annual preliminary meeting of the association, at the Bark River community hall, Wednesday night.

More than 75 Bark River stockholders attended the meeting. Financial and operating reports were given, and plans for the annual meeting being held in Stephenson this afternoon were discussed. Three members to the nine-man board of directors for the association were to be elected today.

Hanford Olson of the Central Cooperators' Wholesale in Superior, Wis., was the principal speaker.

"Get on a cash basis and stay there," Olson advised the assembled farmers. "In view of the recession, credit now is bad for the farmer. Debts incurred today may be very hard to pay at a later date, when income is lower and the dollar has higher value," he explained. Olson also discussed cooperative purchasing of vegetables and coffee, explaining the standards raw products must meet before purchase by the cooperative, and processing in the various plants operated by the cooperative.

Tax Issue

Albert Kipfer of Stephenson, chairman of the board of directors of the marketing association, presided at the meeting. Reports were given by A. P. Kline, secretary, and Elmer Petrell, manager.

Petrell reported that feed and hardware operations at Bark River this past fiscal year were good, but that grocery and meat operations operated at a slight loss. "However, the Bark River project is new, having been started only in 1945. The association will go over past operations in these two phases and make necessary changes. Petrell also noted that some personnel changes were made, including appointment of Oscar Franke of Gladstone, as manager of the store at Bark River. Franke is an experienced meat, grocery and produce manager.

Kline, in reporting to the group, discussed meetings conducted by cooperative organizations in which the Stephenson marketing association is affiliated. He also discussed the current national movement to put cooperative on a higher tax-paying basis.

Started In 1921

"The business men behind this movement want to wipe you cooperators out of existence because you are competing with them and are able to both buy for less and hold prices down," Kline said. "They can not do it, for it is within your rights to organize and work cooperatively," he emphasized. "You folks in cooperatives pay as much in taxes as any other business man in the country," he added.

Kline also noted that several cooperative organizations are campaigning to stalemate the big tax issue. The secretary, in reviewing the history of the Stephenson association, said that the marketing association was formed in 1921, more or less as an outgrowth of the Michigan Farm Bureau which was active in organizing farmers in nearly every community in Michigan. "That was in the big price drop after the first World War," he said.

"Farmers in the Stephenson area were paying $1.70 per bushel for corn, and receiving far less for the produce they marketed," he pointed out. A group of seven who were members of the original farm bureau jointly backed a bank note, and ordered a carload of corn, which was sold to farmers at 90 cents a bushel. "From that time, we have steadily progressed. Today," he said, "we handle nearly everything farmer members want, from hardware, feed, fertilizer and machinery, to meats and groceries."

"In the last fiscal year, we did about $800,000 worth of business," Kline told a reporter.

New Stephenson Building

The Stephenson marketing association has 2100 stockholders. Based on patronage, each stockholder in the association receives a certain percentage for each dollar of revolving fund certificate value accruing to him, yearly, after the initial voting stock requirement has been deducted.

The new machinery building at Stephenson will be completed by November 1, stockholders were told last night. The walls and steel have been erected, and work on the enclosed portions is now underway.

Operations at Bark River were better this year than last year, Petrell reported.

Serving on the board of directors for the marketing association, in addition to Kline and Kipper, are Conrad Solander, Lyle Wilson and Edmund Sager of Stephenson; Albert Larson of Wallace, Arthur Berger of Courley, Chester Good of Bark River and Oscar Nelson of Daggett.

Among cooperatives which the Stephenson association has interest in are the Central Cooperators Wholesale, the Michigan Potato Growers Exchange, the Northland Co-Op Federation, and a live stock cooperative.

Four days earlier, Woods testified, Vaughan called him to the White House and informed him some friends of Vaughan were interested in the race track project.

That was in 1947 when the use of scarce building materials for recreation purposes was sharply restricted by the government. The purpose was to channel materials to homes, particularly for veterans.

McCarthy said that in view of Woods' testimony that "Vaughan was promoting the construction of race tracks ahead of homes for veterans," he ought to be relieved at once of his veterans affairs job.

Financing Muddled For New State Office Building In Lansing

Lansing, Aug. 18 (P)—A legislative committee probed a legal maze today for a method of financing a new $3,500,000 state office building.

Its problem was to provide a financing method without running afoul of the constitutional ban on incurring a debt of more than $250,000 without a vote of the people.

The committee, headed by Senator Harry F. Hittle (R-East Lansing), asked the attorney general to decide whether the legislature could authorize the State Employers Retirement Fund board to build the seven-story structure and lease it to the state with an option to obtain ownership if annual interest payments were made over a period of years.

The retirement fund board has $21,000,000 in trust funds. State Treasurer D. Hale Brake said they could be invested in an office building with as much safety as in government bonds.

Polio Cases Nearing 1,000 For Michigan; Fatalities Total 59

Lansing, Aug. 18 (P)—Michigan's infantile paralysis count crept up to just under the 1,000 mark today as 66 new cases were reported to bring the state's total to 997.

Two more deaths raised the toll of fatalities to 59. This compared with 158 cases and 12 deaths at this time last year.

Dr. F. S. Leeder, head of the department's bureau of disease control, said 75 per cent of the cases were reported for children under 16. This percentage is

Cuban Swimmer's Channel Attempt Beaten By Chills

Calais, France, Aug. 18 (P) — Jose Cortinas abandoned his attempt to swim the English channel today and returned to Calais after covering half the distance to Dover in six hours.

The 32-year-old Cuban left Calais at 12:45 a.m. this morning (6:45 p.m. EST, Wednesday).

Earlier, it had been reported from Dover, on the English side of the channel, that fresh north-easterly winds had stirred up choppy seas in that area.

The two former glider pilots were welcomed by dozens of screaming sirens and ship whistles while hundreds cheered.

Looking fit and bronzed, they were whisked off the city hall for a reception by the mayor and Dartmouth city councilors.

After successfully braving storms, thirst and starvation for more than six weeks without aid, the brothers had to accept a tow from a harbor launch to make their triumphant entrance. The wind failed them 500 yards off shore.

If later forecasts are favorable, she may begin her swim at midnight, her advisors said.

Cortinas was beaten by the bitter cold and adverse winds that rolled heavy waves directly into his face.

Ionia Prisoners Run Blockade, Vanish In Stolen Automobile

Ionia, Mich., Aug. 18 (P) — A pair of escaped prisoners roared through a state police blockade in a stolen car early today and vanished despite an all-out search by land and air.

The escapes, who fled the Michigan State Reformatory with two companions late yesterday, had the help of a fog-shrouded night in evading the police trap.

Officers had set up a blockade at the village of Muir, a seven miles east of here. A heavy fog covered the highway.

At 2 a.m. a bright yellow roadster (jeepster) roared out of the night and through the blockade. Police were unable to halt it. Later, after giving up the chase for the car, state police learned that such a vehicle had been stolen from a farm four miles west of Ionia. They said the escapees probably were driving it.

When dawn came a state police plane and a fleet of patrol cars joined the search for the pair. They had already caught two other inmates who had fled the reformatory with the escapees yesterday.

Sadistic Grand Rapids Prankster Gives Fake Polio Death Reports

Grand Rapids, Mich., Aug. 18 (P) — While families with polio-stricken children tensely await word from St. Mary's hospital, a sadistic prankster exercises his sense of humor here.

Hospital officials said today that three times in 48 hours families have received telephone calls from a man purporting to be a St. Mary's doctor who told them their child had just died.

"This is the cruellest thing I have ever heard of," Police Supt. Albert F. Scheirn commented.

One family had left the hospital only an hour before they received the call. The nurse in charge of the polio ward had assured them their child's condition was favorable.

Foochow Taken By Communists; Canton On Edge

Canton, Aug. 18 (P)—China protested today that British warships, displaying a bellicose attitude toward Nationalist naval units, have entered territorial waters.

The protest was handed to the British embassy yesterday by the Chinese foreign office as these developments came swiftly in the Asian mainland war.

1. Foochow, big port opposite Formosa, fell to the Reds.

2. The Nationalists admitted withdrawing from the Miao Islands, 210 miles east of Tientsin. The islands had been used by Nationalist naval units to blockade northern Communist held ports.

3. Communist armies mounted a big offensive in Hunan province.

4. Americans and other foreigners fled from Canton. The U.S. consulate general expects to be closed by tomorrow.

The Chinese note of protest to Great Britain was given to John Coghill, embassy representative in Canton.

The note warned Britain against repetition. It said the British destroyer Concord was signed off the mouth of the Yangtze river in territorial waters on July 31. After dark, the destroyer moved into the mouth of the river, the note said.

The following of established and recommended breeding practices, not so much the announcements of new methods, is most important to successful dairy herd improvement, Prof. J. B. Fitch of the University of Minnesota, St. Paul, told Upper Peninsula dairymen at their annual banquet meeting last night at the fair grounds.

Much progress in the improvement of dairy cattle is expected within the next 25 to 50 years,

Prof. Fitch said, but he stressed the basic principle that improvement will come only by keeping proved sires.

What is most needed is an application by dairy farmers of what is already known. He pointed out that only an estimated three or four per cent of the total dairy cattle owners follow recommended breeding practices.

Good Sires Needed

In artificial insemination programs the need for proven sires is equally important, Prof. Fitch said. Michigan is one of the leaders in artificial insemination and is high among the states in membership that, nationally, has registered 2,400,000 cows in artificial breeding associations.

More bulls should be proved up to supply the need of the dairy breeders for good sires, Prof. Fitch added. Improvement of the dairy herd with resulting higher production brings many benefits, including a reduction in the number of man-hours of farm work.

Referring to the recognition of outstanding Dairy Herd Improvement Association members in the Upper Peninsula, Prof. Fitch said DHIA helps build up the demand for good sires.

"You can't breed a great herd of cattle with money alone. It takes man care and a love of good stock," Finley said.

4-H Club Workers Doing A Great Job

ON your trips around the fairgrounds to see the thousands of exhibits being displayed, pay particular attention to the work of the 4-H club members. You will be amazed and delighted at the quality of the work being performed by these energetic youngsters.

If you are among those who may suspect that the world is going to the dogs, the 4-H club department exhibits are particularly for you. The 4-H club program is providing incentive and encouragement to more and more young people every year, incentive to learn improved methods of farming and family living. It is a program that appeals equally well to girls as it does to boys.

In several fields of agriculture, such as dairy farming and potato production, the 4-H club members are doing as well, and in many instances, even superior to the most successful adult farmers. The girls are learning most modern methods of home economics.

The U. P. State Fair has long recognized the importance of the 4-H club program, with the result that each year greater emphasis is placed upon this program at the annual fair. This week several hundred boys and girls from virtually every county of the Upper Peninsula are attending the fair and exhibiting their achievements in club work. They deserve all of the praises that are being heaped upon them.

Dillman Urges Small Diversified Industries

UPPER PENINSULA communities were advised by Dr. Grover C. Dillman of Michigan Tech, in a talk before the Iron Mountain-Kingsford Chamber of Commerce, to continue their efforts to secure more small and diversified industries.

Diversification is to be preferred to a community's getting a single large industry, Dillman said. This is advice that is pretty well known, of course, but it can bear repeating.

Many communities have made the mistake of concentrating all their efforts upon getting a large industry, employing thousands of people. In most instances they failed to achieve their objective because the odds were tremendously against them. But some communities, successful in landing a large industry, have found themselves too greatly dependent upon it. When the single industry closes, the entire community goes into the doldrums.

Escanaba has been fortunate in attracting a number of diversified industries. Not all of them survived, but those that do remain are contributing to the economic well-being of the community. It is the old adage of not putting all your eggs in one basket being demonstrated again.

Children Not Periled By Polio In Camps

PARENTS are advised by the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis not to become panicky and bring their children home from outdoor camps. The foundation points out that children's camps are usually safer than any other place for the directors are well-informed as to public health measures.

Scouts, Camp Fire Girls and various religious organizations are holding camps in the Upper Peninsula as usual this summer. No polio cases have been reported from any of them.

One of the unusual developments in this year's polio epidemic in Michigan is the increased number of adults afflicted with the disease. In Detroit, a member of the city council is a victim, and a recent Upper Peninsula case is a 20-year-old mother of two children in Sault Ste. Marie. The Upper Peninsula total thus far is 36 cases.

It is natural that parents are concerned about the current epidemic. In this period it is important that children obtain adequate rest. The family physician should be consulted whenever the symptoms of illness appear. Prompt treatment is the best form of insurance.

Vaughan Admits Home Freezer Deals

MAJOR HARRY VAUGHAN, Mr. Truman's military aide, has blandly admitted that at his request deep freeze units were shipped to him and to friends of his, including two that were sent to the White House for the presidential staff and to Mr. Truman's home in Independence, Missouri.

Major Vaughan said in a public statement that there was nothing incorrect in the presentation or acceptance of the gifts and that they merely constituted "courtesies" extended to Major Vaughan from two of his friends.

It is ridiculous to shrug off these gifts so lightly. The name of Major Vaughan has been injected into the investigation of "five per-centers," influential persons who undertake to get government contracts for others on a fee basis.

Major Vaughan surely can hardly expect the American people to believe that a deep freeze company would send him gifts valued at approximately $3,000, without anticipating something in return. The obvious inference is that the "something in return" in this case was the general's influence, as presidential aide, in securing government contracts and other favors that he was in position to give because of his connection with the White House.

President Truman, who has consistently taken the position that his friends can do no wrong, has reaffirmed his faith in Major Vaughan but even that will not deodorize the stench from this deal.

Many Bears Reported In Upper Peninsula

BEAR apparently are on the increase in the Upper Peninsula.

We have reports from Nahma, Grand Marais and other communities about bears that have come out of the woods and roamed the streets. An Escanaba motorist ran into a bear on US-2 near Hermansville recently with the result that his automobile was badly damaged.

There have been no reports as yet concerning attacks by bears upon human beings. About a year ago, however, a bear carried a child off into the woods near Strong. The tragedy was the subject of much editorial comment at the time.

A hungry bear is a dangerous beast. Potentially such a bear is capable of destroying anything which interferes with its desire to eat. It is incapable of reason and it will attack without warning if it believes itself cornered.

The bears that were seen in village streets obviously were foraging for food. Children, particularly, should be advised that they are not harmless pets. They are dangerous and should be avoided.

SOCIAL SECURITY CHANGES

(Marquette Mining Journal)

It is late in the day for the House Ways and Means committee to approve extensions of coverage and benefits in the Social Security law. The senate is in such a legislative jam that the changes are hardly possible of approval there at this session.

Nevertheless the work of the House committee on this complicated legislation will orders to carry out.

Now with a German administration and a German parliament functioning at Bonn, the task of the occupation is one of supervision rather than direction. And the respective areas of power have not been too clearly defined.

McCloy Faces Difficult Task

BY MARQUIS CHILDS

Washington.—To those who know Germany best it often seems as though a cruel fate had decreed that the grim pattern of the past should be repeated step by step. That foreboding has been stirred again by the results of the German elections.

The hope of those following the struggle for German democratization was for the emergence of two strong parties. The Christian Democrats would embody the conservative forces and the Social Democrats the non-Communist left.

Between these two would be a clear-cut contest and the victor would be able to form a stable government with clearly defined objectives. But the election revealed, and there has been strangely little comment on this phase, the growth of splinter parties representing extremist elements.

COALITION REGIME NEEDED

Consequently, a coalition government becomes necessary. The junior partner in such a government can evade real responsibility and engage in the kind of sniping from the inside that makes for instability and uncertainty.

This was the pattern of the Weimar republic that was proclaimed just 30 years ago. The Communist party used the parliamentary tangles of the feeble republic to discredit and destroy democratic government. So, too, did the National Socialist party as it grew from a splinter to the second or third largest party.

In the new west German federal republic the likelihood is that a minor party, the Free Democrats, will join with the Christian Democrats to govern. The showing of the Free Democrats was a surprise to almost everyone. Within this splinter are some of the violent nationalists bent on throwing off all restraints of the allied occupation.

For the occupation powers, and particularly for the United States that is the real significance of the German election. The new American high commissioner, John J. McCloy, faces a task far more difficult than that of Gen. Lucius D. Clay, who was the boss of a military regime with definite orders to carry out.

HARD TO GET STAFF

This changeover, bringing with it new and trying problems, comes as Americans with knowledge and ability are extremely reluctant to fill essential jobs on the American administrative staff in Frankfort and Berlin. Germany is an old story, and the American policy has too often been a battleground for competing theories.

Recently McCloy had to fly back here for a 10-day interval, his chief objective being to persuade capable men that their duty was to serve with him. One goal was to find a deputy high commissioner, an office on which McCloy puts great stress since he feels one of his main tasks is to integrate west Germany with the rest of western Europe, and this will mean frequent trips to European capitals, leaving the deputy in command.

McCloy begged, pleaded, cajoled. Two or three times as he thought he had someone lined up, the candidate's wife objected and the deal was off. He said in Frankfort that he hoped short to announce his top staff.

At the same time that civilians take over in resurgent Germany, the state department's chief German authority, Robert D. Murphy, is about to get a new assignment. Murphy, who has been head of the department's division on Germany and Austria since he returned from Berlin where he was Clay's assistant, is in line to be ambassador to Belgium.

Who will take Murphy's place at the head of a division that must now assume major responsibility on occupation policy is a question. Col. Henry A. Byroade, one of Murphy's assistants, on loan from the army, is a possibility. Byroade returned with McCloy for his first visit to Germany.

It is fortunate, of course, that so able and courageous a man as McCloy was persuaded to take the top job. The importance of the assignment can hardly be exaggerated. Through his policy of integrating Germany into the western European family, McCloy may be able to counter some of the more vicious trends now finding open expression that may be one way to prevent a recurrence of the desperate past.

News item: Congress passes unanimously a bill to bring into line with today's cost of living compensation for disabled veterans and pensions for the widows and dependents too greatly dependent upon it. When the single industry closes, the entire community

News item: Chairman John E. Rankin's house committee on veterans' affairs considers his bill to pay a bonus of $3 for every day of state-side and $4 for every day of overseas service, plus $500 for a wound.

Here, for all to see, stands the contrast between fulfilling a nation's responsibility to those incapacitated in its defense and raiding a nation's treasury for ransom money to pressure groups — the contrast this newspaper has been talking about.

Granted that neither law nor administration makes compensation for the disabled and pensions for dependent survivors as perfect as they ought to be. Still, they represent what the American people intended to do and ought to do to back up those whom they send to fight for them.

As for the Rankin bonus bill—it is sheer fuel for the political gravy train.

That sick, oh, I'm sick,

—Margaret Ault.

A. "Sick to . . ." is dialectal. "Sick in . . ." is seldom or never heard. The correct American idiom is "Sick at the stomach."

In England they say customarily "I'm sick," for "sick" in British usage means "nauseated, or sick at the stomach." The English usually use the word "ill" in describing sickness other than nausea.

Did I say, "Where is Mary?"

Punctuate them thus:

Did I say, "Where is Mary?"

In such sentences, a question mark serves all questions, and it should be placed just before the final quote. No other mark should follow the final quote.

We here at the office know it resembles the comma, but are not sure what it is called. When I called Rockhurst college, one of the instructors suggested "thousand marker." What is that little thing?"—A. B.

A. It's a simple comma. This rule from the U. S. Government Printing Office Style Manual is typical: "The comma is used to separate thousands, millions, etc., in numbers of four or more digits: 4,230-50,491-1,000,000."

Hollywood: Recently a large advertisement was headed: "101st Anniversary." That looks queer to us. Doesn't "101st" suggest "one hundred and one-st"?—Mrs. G. B.

A. In serious or dignified usage, ordinal numbers are usually spelled out, as: One Hundred and First Anniversary. But in informal usage ordinal numbers are expressed in figures, followed by st, th, or d. "101st" stands for "one hundred and first."

"Most of the young people are stunted," Lippens noted. "They are small in stature because they have not been able to grow up properly."

Lippens considers his visit with relatives in Belgium an experience that he would like to repeat, perhaps in another five years. But to return to Belgium to live? No, the United States is much better.

There is no question, my name is a great asset. But it also has its drawbacks. You inherit both people, those who loved my father as well as those who hated him.

Blames Umpire

Dear Editor:

In the recent District Softball Tournament held in Escanaba over the weekend all went well except for one thing. That was umpiring!

Escanaba—Anthony J. Manley and daughter, Catherine, and Miss Margaret Patton are leaving today for Stevens Point, Wis., where they will attend the wedding of Miss Mary Agnes Boyle to Randolph Fraze.

GETTING READY TO SHOW — 4-H club youngsters are busily engaged keeping their animals all dressed up at the Upper Peninsula State Fair. Here is a typical scene in the cattle barn. Bertha Lee Johnson of Danforth braids Bessie's tail while her friends, Shirley and Bonnie Smith, 420 South 18th street, Escanaba, assist in scrubbing the animal's back. The cow is the property of Bertha Lee's grandfather, Nels Johnson of Danforth.

Delta, Menominee Share Honors In County Herds

Delta country Brown Swiss and Guernsey herd owners placed first in county herd honors in those two breeds, and Menominee county Holstein and Jersey breeders walked off with top county herd honors in those classes at the U. P. State Fair.

Judging was completed late yesterday following a morning rain that delayed the showing of the animals in the ring.

The dairy exhibits were considered outstanding and the best shown in the history of the fair. In the open class there were 84 Holsteins, 55 Guernseys, 24 Jerseys and 52 Brown Swiss entered. The 4-H Club class included 73 Holsteins, 36 Guernseys, 26 Jerseys and 13 Brown Swiss.

County herds are composed of eight animals owned by three or more dairymen.

Delta county's Brown Swiss herd, with animals owned by Joseph Stefl, Clayton Ford and Elmer Nelson of Cornell and Howard Logan of Rapid River, placed first. Dickinson county's herd was second, Menominee third, and Chippewa fourth.

Menominee county entered the only Jersey herd. The animals are owned by Carl and Raymond Hansen of Wallace, and Kenneth and Andrew Benson of Carney. Senior and grand champion bull honors went to Carl Hansen, while Raymond Hensen placed first with a junior champion bull. Champion senior, senior and grand champion females are owned by Andrew Benson of Carney.

Menominee county also placed first with its county herd of Holsteins, owned by the Menominee county infirmary, Frank Allgeyer, superintendent; Gail Bowers, and Johnson Brothers. Dickinson placed second in Holstein county herd competition, Gogebic third, Delta fourth, and Chippewa fifth.

Charles Cota of Escanaba placed first with the senior champion bull and A. Wender & Sons, Iron Mountain, junior and grand champion bulls. Grand and senior females were from the Holstein herd of A. Wender & Sons, while junior champion is owned by Johnson Brothers of Hermansville.

Black Karakul Shown At Fair

New Exhibit Entry

In Sheep Pens

Black Karakul, a brand new sheep breed in U. P. State Fair competition, made their appearance this year from the flock owned by Walter F. Crosby of Shingleton.

The animals attracted much attention from sheep breeders and fair visitors because of their novelty and the attractiveness of their tightly curled black wool. Most highly prized is the pelt of the unborn lambs, a perennial favorite in the manufacture of "fur" coats and as a trimming on cloth coats.

Crosby won three first places—aged ram, ram lamb, and ewe—with his Karakuls, and placed first in one section in the grade or crossbreed class. He also placed first on a grade pen of lambs.

Shropshires from the flocks of Frank Sheffer and Marian Sheffer of Brampton divided honors for their owners in that class. The Sheffers exhibited the only animals of that breed. Frank Sheffer placed first with the best five market lambs in the special market class.

Miss Mary Jacke of Old State Road, Escanaba, the little Mary whose lamb got lost at the fair last year, this year exhibited four animals and placed first with a ewe in the grade class. Mary's lamb last year was taken to her home by neighbors—and there was considerable frantic searching and tears on Mary's part before the lamb was found, safe in its pen at home.

County Agent Is Appointed

Frank Madaski Going To Houghton Post

Crystal Falls—Frank Madaski, county 4-H leader for several years, has accepted appointment as agricultural agent of Houghton county, a distinct promotion in the extension field, and will assume his duties there Sept. 1, he said yesterday.

The appointment has been approved by the extension department of Michigan State college, state board of agriculture and Houghton county board of supervisors. The extension service at East Lansing will soon recommend a 4-H agent to succeed Madaski here.

A graduate of Stambaugh High and Michigan State college, Madaski was Smith-Hughes director and instructor in the Whittiermore high school before going to Stambaugh to teach. He taught in Stambaugh for several years, when he was offered the 4-H club directorship.

Houghton county is the third largest in the state and is regarded as one of the best potato areas in the U. P. As agricultural agent there Madaski will succeed William Schubach, who recently appointed soils and crops specialist for the Peninsula.

Tax Reverted Land Money Is Disbursed

Disbursement of $5,858 in funds received from the state through the sale of tax reverted lands in Delta county for May and June is being completed by the office of the county treasurer. Of the total, $270 is retained by the county, the state receives $53, and $150 goes to the county road commission.

The townships and cities receive checks in the following amounts: Baldwin $723.06; Bark River

Miss Betty Morin, Miss Irma Olson and Mrs. Vernon Whitney.

On Sunday the members of the Cancer Society will attend the booth.

An educational exhibit revealing the service rendered by the American Cancer Society and its state divisions and local chapters is presented in the exhibition building at the U. P. State Fair, arranged by the Delta County Cancer society.

Mrs. John Anthony of Escanaba, education chairman in charge of the exhibit, pointed out that decorative colors of red, white and blue are those of the Michigan Division of the American Cancer Society, and cited the accomplishments of the local chapter to date.

Moving pictures on cancer control have been viewed locally by more than 3,500 people; 30,958 pamphlets and educational literature have been distributed; 2,708 cancer dressings, made by the Escanaba Women's club and the Four Corners club have been distributed to cancer patients.

The Delta County Cancer society has sponsored four educational exhibits, more than 35 speeches have been presented to various organizations, there have been 95 showings of cancer films in the schools of Delta county, and over 33 organizations have had programs received from the Cancer Society.

The booth at the State Fair has volunteer workers in attendance to answer questions and supply information. The volunteer workers for the fair days are as follows:

Refugee Mother And Children Visiting Here With Petersons

A refugee mother starting her home for the fourth time, in a fourth nation, is visiting in Escanaba, accompanied by her two little children, with the Henning and Walter Peterson families and other relatives.

She is Mrs. Emil Kotzian, son Jani who is a little over five, and daughter Margaret, who is three and a half years old. They arrived here Saturday, accompanied by Mrs. Kotzian's aunt, Mrs. Edwin Peterson of Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. Kotzian and children arrived in New York City aboard the Gripsholm Aug. 8, after leaving Gotenburg, Sweden, July 29. For the past two years they have been negotiating for permission to come to the United States under the quota system. Two months ago they received guarantees from relatives in Chicago and Escanaba and immediately began preparations for the journey here.

Liked Swedish People

Their trip from Sweden was quite different from the trip to Sweden. In Sept. 1944, they fled from Kasko, Finland, Mrs. Kotzian's native city, in an open motor boat.

On Sept. 21, 1944, the Russians, who had taken over Finland, announced that because Hungary was still fighting for the Germans, all persons in Finland of Hungarian birth or nationality would be held in concentration camps.

At 5 p.m., that day the Kotzian family left with a friend in his boat. Because it was a dark stormy night with treacherous waters, heavily guarded by the Russians, they could not use lights on the motor on the boat. They rowed all the way. About midway they made connections with a refugee ship and were taken aboard and brought to Sweden.

The Kotzian family, the mother says, will always have a soft spot in their hearts for Sweden, because of the generous hospitality they were shown by the Swedes on their arrival there, without clothes, food or shelter.

Mrs. Kotzian was born in Finland, and on April 19, 1941, was married to Mr. Kotzian. He served on ships which visited there.

Shortly after their marriage, the couple left Finland and made their home in Bremen, Germany. Mr. Kotzian's home town. He was born there, of Hungarian parents, who had left Hungary enroute to America, and who got only as far as Bremen. Kotzian's father was killed in the First World War.

In the spring of 1942 American

Kotzian says, it is unusually cold this year. The coldest in about 25 years. The hot weather in the United States seems good, but sometimes they suffer from it.

There are many refugees left in Sweden, Mrs. Kotzian says. Probably about 100,000. All who knew the Kotzians were glad they could come to America, and wished they were coming too. "As soon as they have enough money and the proper backing, they begin to think about coming where it is safe," she explains.

"Sweden knows that she would be the first to be attacked if the Russians became aggressive," Mrs. Kotzian states. Therefore the country is maintaining a neutral policy and avoiding any issue or act which would hurt anyone's feelings.

Swedish People Nervous

As soon as the Kotzians boarded the Gripsholm they noticed the warm hospitality of Americans, and their desire to help the refugees, Mrs. Kotzian happily recalls. She says that while traveling on busses and trains she was amazed at the carefree spirit of Americans and their friendliness. She also reports that she found life in America even better than she had thought it to be, from books she had read.

People in Sweden are very nervous about the present world situation. To give you an example, while Mrs. Kotzian was being interviewed yesterday, she suddenly became apprehensive. Her hand flew to her throat, she fumbled for words, and then asked Mrs. Peterson to ask the reporter if the interview was for political reasons, or for a political story. When we told her no, she looked very relieved.

She says everything here is wonderful, and that she doesn't feel lonesome. She only wishes "she had lots of money."

"Before the war," she says, "we didn't dream we would be able to live through such hardship. In Germany and Finland they survived many months of bombing and food shortage. In Finland, even shoes were made of paper during the war. They also spent many days gathering wounded and dead countrymen.

When they left Sweden, they were able to take only a part of their financial resources with them. When the Kotzians left Germany and Finland, everything they owned stayed behind.

Jani was born in Finland and married in Sweden. Both speak Swedish. As soon as Jani is accustomed to the language and the country he will start school in Chicago. Possibly in the winter term this year. Both Mr. and Mrs. Kotzian speak Swedish, Finnish, German and some English. Here Mrs. Kotzian's aunt translates for her.

SOMETHING NEW — The mink, a royal pastel, which Carol Wawirka, at center holds gingerly for her friends, was something new to Albert and Ann Johnston of Keene, N. H., who are guests of the Wawirkas. Albert Johnston and his sister, along with their parents, were subject matter for a new movie, "Lost Boundaries," produced by Louis de Rochemont and currently released by Film Classics Inc. The movie deals with the life of Doctor Johnston and his family, who are part Negro, in a small New Hampshire town. Albert and his sister and two brothers did not learn they were part colored, until Albert was 16. The movie, a version of a book written by W. L. White, son of the late William Allen White, is one of a few new movies dealing with the problems of colored people, and "passing." The movie cost $600,000, and uses music Albert composed while a student of music at the University of New Hampshire. Albert has many sound ideas on how some of the Negro-white problems can be met and intends to write about them. He will go to Princeton this fall, to work for his master's in music. During an interview here he praised Jackie Robinson for his outspoken statements against Communism. Carol Wawirka and Ann Johnston both attend Bryant Secretarial school in Rhode Island.

Michigan Happenings In Washington

By C. YATES Mc DANIEL

Washington, (AP) — The federal government has been getting a liberal education about Michigan's Upper Peninsula throughout this session from Reps. Bennett and Potter.

This week the capital got another lesson from Albert Gazvoda, Michigan unemployment compensation director at Hancock. Gazvoda said he didn't come to Washington for handouts or to promote leaf raking programs.

He came with facts, figures and what he described as "practical schemes to give useful work to the 4,400 unemployed in the Copper Country. This figure means, Gazvoda said, that over three-tenths of the area's labor force is out of work. Of this number, 62 percent will exhaust their unemployment compensation within four or five weeks.

Gazvoda said that if something isn't done to reopen the copper mines of northern Michigan along the lines of measures being pushed by Rep. Bennett, more than half of northwestern Michigan's workers will be jobless.

Muskegon was declared a distress unemployment area when the unemployment percentage reached 23.3.

Lumber Mills Down

Although the closing of the copper mines accounts for much of the Upper Peninsula's unemployment, Gazvoda said, he and Congressmen Bennett and Potter had stressed in their talks with government officials that the area's lumber mills were working at only 33 percent of capacity.

Bennett and Gazvoda got their greatest encouragement from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. Gazvoda said the R.F.C. would be "sympathetically interested" in loan applications from small businesses in the area.

Bennett said the agency would send a representative from the Minneapolis divisional office to the Upper Peninsula to familiarize business men with the proper procedures and requirements. Bennett explained that several Upper Peninsula small businessmen had applied for loans some time ago, but "they seem to have got snagged in red tape."

Potter and Bennett accompanied Gazvoda to the agriculture department to see what can be done to get government business for a Seney mill that believes it has a good grain storage formula.

Nationwide Airlines Now In Third Summer

By R. C. PETERSON

Houghton, Mich.—Modern air service was always a dream of Copper Country residents, in fact no more than five years ago the saying was, "What the Copper Country needs is good air service with the outside world."

In the time that has elapsed, riding in the air has finally become a reality, thanks to the foresight of Nationwide Airlines, Inc., of Detroit, and the generosity of the Canadian government in providing an airport able to handle one of the largest type transport planes.

Now in the third summer of continued air service to the people of the Copper Country and the Upper Peninsula, Nationwide is seeking a franchise to provide the public with airmail service.

Tuesday afternoon we had the pleasure of meeting Captain George Healey of St. Claire Shores, Mich., and Co-Pilot William "Bill" Ashton of Detroit.

Wednesday afternoon, Chief Pilot J. C. Cooney and brother Thomas, co-pilot, both of Roseville, near Detroit, were interviewed.

Thursday afternoon we expected to meet Captain Robert E. Smith, general manager of the company, and Co-Pilot Allie Gager of Detroit, but the two pilots were unable to make the run. We still look forward to meeting them, however.

Responsible in handling the 17,000 pound D-C 3's are in capable hands, as all but one, William Ashton, had considerable flying training with the U. S. Army Air Corps during the war and all have from 2,500 to 6,000 hours flying time under their belts. Ashton was an Air Corps cadet in the war as it concluded, but still has over 2,500 flying hours.

Chief Pilot J. C. Cooney aided the correspondent immensely with data, he being the pilot on Queen Betty Farrar's trip to the Copper Country and on her departure. Thirty-one years old, he and his brother, Tom, as his aid coming north and Bill Ashton going south.

Spending six years with the Air Corps he was a member of the 14th Air Force in China and the Seventh Air Force in Hawaii. Holding the job of keeping check on the other pilots, he completed 5,300 hours of flying Wednesday. He is second only to General Manager Smith, who has approximately 6,000 hours recorded in his flying log. Smith, however, by the nature of his position, does only intermittent flying, so the rest of the crew expect to catch him within a year or so. Captain George Healey has over 5,000 flying hours.

Crew Is Capable

Five of the pilots possess Airline Transport Pilot Ratings certificates, the highest rating card a pilot can receive, and Copper Country residents can feel safe in any ship piloted by this crew. Only Bill Ashton's age of 22 is his mark of ineligibility for the same rating. Civil Aeronautics administration regulations forbid the pilots from flying more than 1,000 hours per year.

One of the rare cases of airline history is recorded when the Cooney brothers take the controls on a flight. Mentioning the fact to them, they said they had never heard of two brothers at the controls but knew of a case where a father and son performed in a duo capacity.

The twin-motored DC-3's, one a 24-passenger, the other with a 25-passenger seating capacity, make the daily U. P. run, with Chief Steward Melvin Blaney of Dearborn and two charming stewardesses, Miss Adele Rohde of Detroit and Miss Hale May of Detroit completing the crew, the latter, a part time employee. The ships weigh 17,000 pounds without load and have a maximum load of 25,200 pounds on 17' x 16' 10' ply tires. The motors are 1,200 horsepower Pratt and Whitney models and the ship is capable of completing the run should either motor develop engine trouble.

Four 200 gallon gas tanks supply the necessary fuel, with only 550 gallons tanked on the take-off on each one way trip. The 250 gallon deficit enables the ship to carry a full load of passengers without overloading. About 350 gallons of gasoline are consumed on a one-way jaunt from the Houghton County Memorial Airport to the city airport in Detroit, so there are no worries of not having a sufficient fuel supply.

The interior of the ship is designed to make the passenger feel as though he were sitting in his own living room. Comfortable cushioned seats are provided. Coffee is served to the customer by the stewardess during the trip.

Capable of handling the flying of the ship alone, the Captain is always accompanied by the co-pilot for additional assistance. His duties consist of retracting the landing gears on take-off, keeping tab on the instruments and a considerable amount of paper work along the route.

Two way radio which enables the ship to be in contact with stations at the Memorial Airport, Traverse City, Cadillac, Lansing and Detroit, assure the pilots of upto the minute reports on variations in weather. Three transmitters and four receivers are the safety features of the radio system.

All co-pilots are capable of flying the ship and on the run to Detroit, he generally flies half the distance. When rough weather is at hand, the Captain takes the controls.

Upon leaving the Houghton County Airport at Oneida, the DC-3 aircraft makes stops at Marquette, Iron Mountain, Escanaba, Menominee, and Lansing before arriving at its destination, Detroit. Houghton and Detroit are the important points which have daily air stops, while the other points may or may not be stop-offs, depending upon reservations. The ship leaves Detroit at 10 a. m., and arrives in the Copper Country at 2:30 p. m. It departs from the local airport at 4 p. m., and lands at the Detroit airport at 8:30 p. m.

During the summer season, two ships arrive on Friday to accommodate customers. In addition to the 4 p. m. plant, the second airship arrives at the airport at 8:45 p. m. Numerous Copper Country residents take occasion to view the oncoming plane as the shadows of dusk make it imperative to light the runways. The plane flashes its lights on arrival.

When queried about air mail service to the Copper Country, Chief Cooney said there is an obvious need for it here, and Nationwide Airlines has a petition on record

HIGH HOLLYHOCK — R. W. Haddock, 315 South Fifth street, retired superintendent of the Escanaba Paper company, is shown measuring a Paul Bunyan size hollyhock in his garden. The height is 11 feet eight inches.

Hotel Olds Fixture Has 14th Birthday

Lansing, (AP) — Here's a social note that should interest every Michigan legislator, lobbyist and occasional visitor to Lansing.

Fielder Anderson, one of the seeking a franchise to handle this service. By its past record in the C. C., he said, they have shown the people they are well capable of handling airmail which would provide the tie so badly needed by the Upper Peninsula with the Lower Peninsula. At present, air mail service as far as Sault Ste. Marie is provided in Michigan.

capitol city's best known and most noted personalities, observed his 14th birthday with appropriate ceremonies over the weekend.

Fielder, an Irish settler, has made a pet of Bruce Anderson, manager of the Hotel Olds, opposite the capitol, and is a permanent fixture in the lobby. He is also a well-known sight on the capitol lawn.

Many folks have a sneaking hoot.

Fielder marked the occasion with a quiet dinner, a cake with candles and a reception for some of his closest friends. Nothing elaborate—since he doesn't believe in putting on the dog.

Smoke Device Is Developed

To Make Eliminator At Marinette Plant

Marinette, Wis.—The Smoke Eliminator company of Milwaukee announced the development of a smoke and gas eliminating unit to be attached to boilers of industrial plants, office buildings, and apartment buildings. Tests have been conducted at the Marinette Marine corporation plant here for months.

The Marinette Marine corporation will be the sole licensee for manufacture of the product.

This development is expected to have a far-reaching effect in industry. The smoke eliminating unit may later be developed for use in smaller plants, and even for heating units of homes.

Operation of the smoke eliminator is on the principle of a cumulus cloud, producing rain and clearing the air. One of the claims of the engineers who developed it is that the smoke eliminator not only will take smoke and gases out of the air, but will eliminate the need for chimneys. The unit is attached to boilers and treats the smoke and gases before they get to the smoke stacks.

The principal functioning of this smoke eliminator is by the process of condensation. The particles of smoke and fly-ash are collected in a sludge or sedimentation tank and can then be disposed of by drainage.

Construction of this unit is such that it lends itself to practically any form of installation to any heating system in office buildings, large apartment buildings, industrial plants and utility plants.

Preliminary tests have brought 100 per cent elimination of smoke, fly-ash and gases from the smoke stacks. The building at the Marinette Marine corporation plant which houses the pilot eliminator was built last spring and was designed only as a temporary structure. A large and inefficient boiler, taken from an old locomotive, was used for test purposes and was operated intermittently for nearly 1,000 hours.

The boiler's smoke stack was put up merely for the sake of appearance. Actually there was no need for a smoke stack, since the eliminator removed all solid material, gases and even cooled the exhaust from the boiler.

Jobless Over 65 May Get Extra Benefits

The recent increase in unemployment has brought to the attention of the local social security office that a number of workers 65 years of age and over do not realize that they are eligible to receive not only unemployment compensation benefits during the period when they have been laid off but that they may also be eligible to receive monthly benefits from the Federal Old Age and Survivors Insurance program.

In a number of states the amount of the unemployment compensation benefit is reduced or extended over a longer period of time in proportion to the benefit received from the old-age and survivors insurance program. However, in Michigan it is possible to receive benefits from both programs simultaneously.

Failure to apply for social security benefits on the part of several workers 65 years of age and over until they have collected all of their unemployment compensation has resulted in their losing several months of social security benefits to which they were entitled had they filed the necessary application on time.

The local office of the Social Security Administration located in the Post Office Building, Escanaba, Michigan urges all workers age 65 and over, working in employment covered by the social security program, who have stopped working for any reason, laid off, sickened, prolonged vacations, or retirement, to visit the local security office for advice as to their eligibility to social security benefits.

Other important persons at the convention will include Mrs. Francis Furlong, district president; Mrs. William O. Merrill of Bloomfield Hills, first vice president of the State Federation and Mrs. Nuel Donley of Big Rapids, chairman of Junior clubs. Mrs. Furlong will bring the president's message to district delegates at the Friday luncheon.

Bark River

Buys Property

Richard McDermott of Chicago has bought the old Alfred Dahlberg home on the old highway, a mile east of Bark River, from Mickey Keimel. The two families will continue to live in the house. In later years McDermott may move on the property.

Builds Own House

Percy Stoffels, who has never laid cement before, has built a basement and is now building a house over it, on a lot opposite the Helmre Bruce farm. Building a house is also new to him.

When one considers the difficulties encountered by families of two or three, in renting a house, one can understand Stoffels' determination to have a home of his own. He has 10 children, six of whom are at home. Mrs. Frank Nelson lives in Escanaba, Percy Jr., is at Camp Riley, Man., and John is with his uncle in East Drakelet, Ill.

Stoffels works at the Krause mill. The family is now living in the basement of the new house. Stoffels planted a large garden this year, and has a good crop of climbing tomatoes. The heavy-yielding tomato plants are becoming very popular in this area.

Today's Recipes

The method of cleaning and cooking a turtle, requested recently is contained in detail in a letter received today from Mrs. Ben Levinski of 947 Washington avenue, Escanaba, and another which comes from a Daily Press reader.

Here is Mrs. Levinski's method.

To clean turtle cut off alive and let turtle lie in cold water one half hour, or hang on a hook with neck down until blood stops dripping. Then wash and drop into boiling water until perfectly tender. Take off shells, remove the gall and sandbag carefully. Next cut the meat and entrails into small pieces, saving all the juice, put into a saucepan without water and cover with salt, cayenne and black pepper. Add for each turtle, butter the size of an egg made smooth with a tablespoon of flour. A few tablespoons of cream should be added last. Many persons add the yolks of three or four hard-boiled eggs just before serving. While cooking it should be stirred very often and must be dished up and eaten very hot.

Remove the turtle from the water and after it has cooked a little place it on its back with the neck away from you and loosen and remove the under shell. The liver, gall bladder and sand bag will be found near the head end, the gall being attached to the left side of the liver. Take out as you would that of a chicken being careful not to break it. Remove entrails and throw them away. Take out the eggs if there are any, remove the slight membrane and drop them into cold water. Cut all the meat very fine, saving any water that may collect in the shell. The turtle is now ready to use in a stew or in other ways.

Here is one recipe:

Turtle a-la-King
Two cups cooked turtle meat.
Six yolks hard cooked eggs
Two tablespoons butter or other fat

Two cups cream or rich milk
Salt and pepper
Allspice
Nutmeg

Mash the yolks of the hard-boiled eggs and mix them with the fat. Put the cream or milk into a double boiler. When it is scalded

Co. D, 107th Engineers, the local National Guard unit, which is present in camp at Camp Grayling, is due to return home Saturday. The company is due to leave camp Friday and bivouac some place south of the straits that night.

Lie at camp, it has been learned, is considerably more than routine. Several days were devoted to bridge building and several more were spent on the firing range.

Camp life was also made exciting by the arrival on one occasion of a large number of P-51s along with paratroopers. Several flying boxes also landed at the camp airport one day.

Last Saturday was open house when the camp was inspected by top flight officers of the national guard, including General Loveland M. S. National Guard commander, Governor Mennen Williams and staff were also present in camp on that day.

Capt. E. J. Doyle, commander of the local unit, has received many compliments for the fine showing made by his company. Forty-eight local men are in camp. The total number of men encamped at Camp Grayling is slightly in excess of eight thousand.

Ted Gray Loses Two Hit Game

Tigers Bow, 1-0, To Chicago Sox

Chicago, Aug. 18 (AP)—The Tigers hope to break their losing streak in the finale of their two-game series with the White Sox today.

For 19 innings in a row now they haven't scored a run.

The Bengals lost another heart-breaker last night. The White Sox had only two hits against the Tigers' seven, but the Sox won the game 1-0.

It was a tough one for Southpaw Ted Gray to lose. In fact, the 20,919 fans who saw the game thought so. They gave Ted a big "simpatico" cheer when he walked off the field after allowing only one hit in seven innings. Art Houtteman, who relieved Gray, also allowed only one hit.

The White Sox had the winning combination in the seventh inning. Gray walked Shortstop Luke Appling. Cass Michael bunted and then Johnny Ostrowski singled through the box to to score Appling.

The Tigers came pretty near saving the game in the ninth inning. With one out, Vic Wertz came through with a single and Johnny Groth doubled for the seventh hit off Southpaw Mickey Haefner. Hoot Evers drew an intentional pass, loading the bases to set up a possible double play. It worked. Johnny Lipon cracked one to Appling. The ball went to Michaels and then to Buck Kress, ending the game.

In the eighth with one gone, Pat Mullin batted for Gray but he flied out and Nell Berry's single was wasted as Don Kolloway forced him.

The game lasted only an hour and 38 minutes, shortest of the Chicago season.

Lou Kretlow (3-2) is slated to pitch for the Bengals today. Randolph Gumpert (10-10) is the probable White Sox pitcher.

Fine Needlework Displays At Fair

The needlework department at the Upper Peninsula State Fair contains some of the loveliest pieces of crocheted, knitted and cutwork pieces that can be found in this area. The collection in this field has several very outstanding features.

Mrs. I. R. Nelson of Bark River, superintendent of the display reports that it is larger than in former years. Mrs. Nelson is assisted by Mrs. Selma Sandahl of Stephenson and Mrs. William Olson of Bay View.

To the prize awards this year has been added the special Centennial Award of the Michigan State Fair for Home Arts to the county fair exhibitor. This award entitles the holder to enter her article in the Michigan State Fair at Detroit without entry fees. This award is presented in the following divisions: bedsprads, crocheted and knitted articles other than bedsprads, quilts and rugs.

A 72 year old entrant from Gladstone was honored with three awards. She not only won the first premium for a lovely crocheted tablecloth but she also won the nationwide crochet award and the Centennial award.

The knitted articles on display were very beautiful. Handmade figures sweaters in brilliant colors, tiny baby sweaters in petal soft tones of pink, blue and yellow and a lovely angora sweater, which was awarded the premium for the most outstanding sweater in the group, made this display one of the most eye-catching exhibits of the department.

Rugs and quilts which were displayed on the second floor balcony were of varied design and numerous color schemes. A very beautiful rug of an unusual weave completed in a brown background with several brilliant colors in the weave was an outstanding feature of this display. A lovely braided rug in various tones of blue, rose and gray was chosen as the most outstanding rug in all divisions. The rug was an almost perfect piece of workmanship on the part of the contributor.

Many women over sixty-five contributed articles this year which beautiful to the eye and showed the patience with which these enthusiasts of the art perfect their work.

Railroad Freight Rate Up Sept. 1

Washington, (P)—The nation's railroads announced that the new four per cent general freight rate increase will be effective Sept. 1.

The increase is expected to add about $293,000,000 a year to railroad freight billings. It will go into effect on the same day that the rail industry extends a 40-hour work week to its non-operating employees.

The Interstate Commerce Commission said the additional cost of the 40-hour week was a major consideration in granting the rate increase.

There was one contribution to the junior division for girls under sixteen. A young lady from Norway, Mich., won the first place award because of the fine work put into the making of a very attractive dress. Though there was but the one entry the prize would not have been awarded had the article not been of the finest quality. It is hoped that interest in this division will be stimulated and that next year the competition will be keen.
